

presents

BRASS COMPANY

March 7 at 6:30 p.m.

Masonic Temple

on Springfield Highway, Lebanon

Four guys with some garden hose, some great repertory, and a whole bunch of metal tubing make for a terrific, educational and entertaining experience for the whole family.

You'll never forget how a brass instrument works, we promise!

JOHN DORN, tubist, ARTURO FUERTE, trombone, REESE LAND, trumpet, LORENZO TRUJILLO, trumpet, and FRED WILLIAMS, horn.

In addition to their normal instruments, the Brass Company also give an introduction to the brass family of instruments, using their virtuoso skills on the hose-a-phone - yes, it's long, green, and has a funnel at the end - in order to teach the audience how the instruments actually work.

The Brass Company was formed in October 1993 and has included musicians from all over the nation. One of the primary reasons for the creation of The Brass Company was and still is a strong desire on the part of all of its members to bring exciting brass music to audiences throughout the country. The group is also committed to introducing audiences to brass chamber music and teaching an appreciation for quality music striving to combine its members into one cohesive musical unit. The Brass Company has pursued residencies, concert tours, master classes, clinics, and has competed in national and international competitions, being selected as one of five finalists for the 1995 T.U.B.A. International Brass Quintet Competition in Chicago, a semi-finalist in the 1997 Fischhoff Chamber Music Competition, a semi-finalist in the 1997 Concert Artist Guild Chamber Music Competition and selected as the winning ensemble at the 1995 New York Brass Conference Quintet Competition.

RSVP by March 6 to Melissa Knight at (270) 692-3177

Also brought to you by:

Marion County Arts & Humanities Council
Supporting the Performing Arts, Visual Arts & Humanities in Marion County

